

SELL MORE

AS AN UNTETHERED SELLER

Who Are You When It's Time to Sell?

A moment to reflect on what happens when it's time to take the next step.

IMAGINE THIS

There's something you know you need to do to reach your next level in sales. Maybe it's making the call you've been avoiding. Maybe it's becoming more consistent. Maybe it's pursuing a larger account, asking for a bigger opportunity, stepping into leadership, leaving a role you've outgrown, or building something of your own. You know what to do, but for some reason, you haven't done it.

What the Untethered Seller knows:

The Untethered Seller knows that knowing what to do isn't always enough. What she's discovered is that sometimes what stands between where she is and where she wants to go isn't a lack of knowledge, strategy, or ability. It's what she's still tethered to when it's time to take the next step.

Now, turn the reflection toward yourself.

01

What is something you know you need to do to reach your next level in sales—but haven't done?

02

What might you be tethered to that's keeping you from taking that next step?

Don't try to untether from it yet. First, become aware of it.

NEXT → DAY 2: FearX — What Are You Tethered To?