

SELL MORE

AS AN UNTETHERED SELLER

Becoming The Untethered Seller

A moment to reflect on who you are becoming—and who you may need around you as you become her.

IMAGINE THIS

You’ve identified what you may be tethered to, chosen courage over comfort, practiced courageous action, and begun collecting evidence. Now imagine yourself selling at the level you say you want to reach. The question is no longer only, “What do I need to do?” Ask instead: Who do I need to become to sell at that level? And who do I need around me while I’m becoming her?

What the Untethered Seller knows:

The Untethered Seller knows that becoming her does not mean fear, doubt, rejection, discomfort, or uncertainty disappear. She learns to recognize what is happening within her without allowing it to govern what she does next. She also knows she does not have to figure out every next level alone. The right “Who” can help her see what she cannot yet see, challenge conclusions she has accepted, and help her stop solving the wrong problem.

Now, turn the reflection toward yourself.

01

Who do you need to become to sell at the level you say you want?

02

Who are your “Whos”—or who might you need around you—to help you become her?

You received the invitation. Now it’s time to decide whether you will accept it.

NOW LET’S BECOME THE WOMAN WHO DOES.