SELL MORE

AS AN UNTETHERED SELLER

Who Are You When It's Time to Sell?

A moment to notice who you become when selling asks something uncomfortable of you.

IMAGINE THIS

Think about a recent moment when selling asked something uncomfortable of you. Maybe it was time to make the call, follow up, introduce yourself, ask for the business, give the presentation, walk into a bigger room, or pursue an opportunity beyond what you're accustomed to. You may have known exactly what to do. But who showed up when it was time to do it?

What the Untethered Seller knows:

The Untethered Seller knows that knowing what to do isn't always enough. She pays attention to who she becomes when it's time to do what she already knows—including her self-talk, her self-leadership, and the way she sees herself. Her sales identity doesn't just stay inside her head. It shows up in how she sells.

Now, turn the reflection toward yourself.

01

Think about a recent moment when selling asked something uncomfortable of you. What was happening?

02

Who did you become in that moment? What did you notice about your self-talk, your self-leadership, or the way you saw yourself?

Don't try to change anything yet. Simply pay attention to what you notice.

NEXT → DAY 2: FearX — What Are You Tethered To?